Next Great Stop: CALIFORNIA

Now's the time to head due west for your honeymoon. The perfect mix of laid-back and luxe, Big Sur (shown) is back in action after a landslide in May. Ventana Big Sur, an Alila resort (from $675 per night, ventanabigsur.com) took advantage of the road closures to renovate and rebrand. When it opens in October, you'll find a new spa and restaurant—plus 15 posh “glampsites” in the property's redwood forest. About 220 miles south, the Hotel Californian (from $550 per night, thehotelcalifornian.com) has the largest guest rooms in Santa Barbara. They're also downright stunning, with custom Moroccan tile and a regal jewel-toned palette. And guests at the much-anticipated Waldorf Astoria Beverly Hills (from $800 per night, waldorfastoriabeverlyhills.com) get a personal concierge, who can arrange Rolls-Royce car service and reservations at the hotel's signature Jean-Georges Vongerichten restaurant. —Brooke Porter Katz
